

FRIDAY, OCT. 21, 1892.

FOUR HUNDRED YEARS AGO.

Four hundred years ago to-day, October 21, 1492, Christopher Columbus discovered America, landing on the island of San Salvador. This is the most momentous anniversary ever reached by America, as on it all the sublime events succeeding in the New World depend. The event is signalized especially in the United States to-day by the dedication of the World's Fair buildings and grounds at Chicago, where next year the grandest assemblage of all nations, and the most extensive exhibition of the products of art, industry and commerce the world has ever seen is promised with every prospect of realization. Little Hawaii owes so much to the chief nation of America that it might have been expected she should have indulged in a little jubilation this day. All that is heard of, however, is an appropriate celebration by Oahu College. This is peculiarly fitting on the part of that institution, an outcome, as it is, of the civilization introduced by American missionaries, and whose upbuilding, to its present creditable status, is due to the earnest and self-sacrificing work of the descendants of those worthies. Surely even a band concert, if nothing more, might have been given by way of a public celebration of the great anniversary.

FINANCIAL RETURNS.

The following exhibits will show the state of the Hawaiian Treasury for the quarter ending September 30, 1892, as compared with the corresponding quarter of 1891:

Receipts, 1891.	$388,322 30
1892.	277,967 18
Decrease, 1892.	$110,355 21
Expenditures, 1891.	$506,352 70
1892.	415,947 46
Decrease, 1892.	$ 90,405 24
Treasury Balance, 1891.	$113,988 00
1892.	27,195 40
Decrease, 1892.	$ 86,792 60
Receipts from loans, 1891.	$211,800 00
1892.	36,000 00
Decrease, 1892.	$175,800 00

Although the expenditures were less by over $93,000 this year, they included the large extraordinary items of $21,090.03 for dredging the harbor and $13,319.59 for expenses of the Legislature, a total of $34,409.62. The Legislature's cost cannot be helped, unless it might be lightened a bit. It is only to be hoped the results will enable the work to be styled reproductive. What has been spent on the harbor dredging represents a permanent public improvement of an importance to be only fully realized in the future. It is an expenditure that meets with a unanimity of approval from all quarters rarely witnessed.

The returns for the past quarter do not represent the full amount of contraction in national finances. There are accounts outstanding against appropriations that have been some time exhausted, which in the aggregate form a debt under the circumstances somewhat formidable. It is reassuring to notice that the amount borrowed in the last quarter is $155,800 less than in the corresponding time last year. While the mention of a national loan, however, creates an unintelligent horror in the minds of many people, there are circumstances where judicious borrowing becomes part of the highest order of financing. If a loan of, say, $500,000 to $1,000,000 could be inexpensively floated either at home or abroad, or both, at a saving in interest on present indebtedness bearing interest, it would be a great relief for what need only be regarded as a temporary depression. This relief with the economy that must be realized, in bringing ordinary expenditures within ordinary revenue, would soon bring the country into smooth water again.

A loan is not the only relief that should be sought. Measures for increasing the revenue without imposing too onerous burdens should be devised. If ever we get complete free trade with the United States, such measures will be an absolute necessity, to make up for the loss of revenue from imports. An income tax, for instance, should not be deemed an unreasonable expedient. The income qualification of voters for Nobles might be made the basis, as the minimum income to be taxed. This would make those who elect half of the Legislature pay for that high privilege. It might go far toward mitigating that burning sense of injustice, which finds bitter voice at every election, felt by those who do not have the Noble franchise. And it would tend greatly to produce a patriotic conservatism in the people who exercise that great power, as when they had to pay something for it, they would doubtless be more solicitous over the manner in which the public revenues were expended. A tax of one-quarter or even one-half percent on incomes of $600 and over would not be a grievous burden, surely.

A South Sea Parliament.

News from the Hervey Group by the S. S. Richmond states that the newly-constituted native Parliament of the Hervey Group Federation concluded its sittings at Rarotonga on the 9th July. The proceedings included some interesting legislation. To Pou to Rangi, who recently visited Auckland, acted as speaker, and the debating was throughout conducted in a fair and orderly manner. The House threw out a divorce bill, alleging that each island in the group should make that a local subject, and retrenched two Customhouse officials.

They adopted a flag for the Federation, authorized Queen Makea's head to be placed on the postage stamps, passed addresses of welcome to Lord Glasgow, Governor of New Zealand, and to Mr. F. J. Moss, British Resident, thanking him for guidance. The Parliament also passed the Appropriation Act, under which a portion of the Government surplus of $7000 will be appropriated for roads, education and public works. A Parliament House is to be erected, as at present the only building available for the native legislators is the jail. A Rarotongan correspondent writes us regarding the Parliament as follows: "The most important proceedings were voting and deciding by majority. This is, indeed, a great point gained. Formerly, a chief by objecting could stop the whole proceedings. Within a day or two of its close, one of the Rarotonga members sent in his resignation because 'he was not listened to,' thinking by so doing he would upset all that had been done. Much to his horror and disgust Parliament went on without him."—Samoa Times.

Stage, Song and Show.

Messrs. Lyon and Healy, of Chicago, have constructed a mandolin, of which the tone-chamber is half a coconut shell. Experts say the tone of these instruments is very fine. Messrs. Lyon and Healy (says the Piano Trades Journal) are also experimenting with wood-fibre for use in banjos in place of the orthodox old sheepskin that has done duty for so long. The material is manufactured from wood-pulp, and can be shaved down to any required thickness.

Go-Won-Go-Mohawk is the curious name of a North American Indian actress, who is going to England next year to act in a drama called "The Indian Mail Carrier." She opens on April 10 at the Shakespeare Theatre, Liverpool. An admirer describes Go-Won-Go-Mohawk as straight as an arrow, graceful as a fawn, powerful as an amazon, and the possessor of a sweet voice, and a proficient performer on several musical instruments.

At the Theatre Royal, Plymouth, last month a large bouquet was handed over the footlights to Mr. C. Arnold's little girl during the progress of "Hans the Boatman." With the bouquet was this letter:—"This Bouquet I have Presented your daughter hoping every success To you If you Wish To see me I am in The Corner by the Drum Man I suppose you do not want a boy to mind your dog if you do I would like to Travel with you if you Want one Would you send Answer by a boy Around."—Australian Star, Sept. 30.

An Infant Phenomenon.

An infant phenomenon has been discovered at Plaisance, a suburb of Paris, in the person of a little girl called Jeanne Eugénie Moreau, aged only 5, but endowed with a most extraordinary memory. She is a walking encyclopedia on all matters appertaining to the history of France, and especially of the great revolution; is an adept also in natural history, and at the same time answers without hesitation or error practical questions about cooking, gardening and household management.

The youthful prodigy was born in Paris in January, 1887, her father, Philippe Moreau, being a humble laborer, but descended from a revolutionary hero whose name figures in the annals of 1789, and who was decorated by General de Lafayette after the taking of the Bastille. Owing to the poverty of her progenitor Eugénie Moreau was adopted by a widow—Mme. Callay—who, noticing the retentive faculties of the child cultivated and developed them with assiduity until the phenomenon has become capable of passing a stiff competitive examination and of putting to shame many a schoolboy or schoolgirl of maturer years and more expensive education. The fate of Eugénie Moreau will no doubt be that reserved for all intellectual prodigies of years. She will be exhibited to scientific men and reported upon; she will probably receive an offer from an enterprising showman, and in all likelihood Eugénie, should she survive academic testings and public examinations, will eventually settle down to the life of a schoolmistress—a calling for which her marvelous memory will preeminently fit her.—Paris Letter London Telegraph.

A Good Thing to Keep at Hand.

From the Troy (Kansas) Chief.

Some years ago we were very much subject to severe spells of cholera morbus; and now when we feel any of the symptoms that usually precede that ailment, such as sickness at the stomach, diarrhoea, etc., we become scared. We have found Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy the very thing to straighten one out in such cases, and always keep it about. We are not writing this for a pay testimonial, but to let our readers know what is a good thing to keep handy in the house. For sale by all dealers. Benson, Smith & Co., Agents for the Hawaiian Islands.

The raw white of an egg, in almost every instance, will dislodge a fish-bone or anything else which may become lodged in the throat.

The Label Suit.

Daniel Logan, editor of this paper, appeared before the Police Justice this morning, to answer the charge of criminal libel against the American Minister. Deputy Attorney-General Creighton appeared for the Crown, and asked that the defendant be remanded till Tuesday. The request was made at the instance of Mr. Hatch, counsel for defendant, who was engaged at the Supreme Court, and it was granted.

Persons troubled with chronic diarrhoea should try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Many cases have been cured by it after all else had failed and skilled physicians were powerless. For sale by all dealers. Benson, Smith & Co., Agents for the Hawaiian Islands.
